

TCVC After 2024 Parade Feed Back

Parade Meetings:

- I think meetings monthly seem to work well, but we always would like more participants. I sense the Skype capability is appreciated and should be continued.

Sponsorship/Money:

- We seem to have done better than normal this year and that's great but finding someone who'd volunteer to focus on this effort would be a real help.

Online Application:

- Having worked on this for several years, I think it's working well and affords us an easy way to monitor who signs up, as well as having contact info for those individuals and organizations.

Sub-committees:

- Having Tom step in to head up the volunteer coordination was very beneficial this year. I'd like to see every sub-committee effort have at least one back-up to help with the effort and be able to pick up the job, if need be.

Parade Meetings:

- I think meetings monthly seem to work well, but we always would like more participants. I sense the Skype capability is appreciated and should be continued.

Sponsorship/Money:

- We seem to have done better than normal this year and that's great but finding someone who'd volunteer to focus on this effort would be a real help.

Online Application:

TCVC After 2024 Parade Feed Back

- Having worked on this for several years, I think it's working well and affords us an easy way to monitor who signs up, as well as having contact info for those individuals and organizations.

Sub-committees:

- Having Tom step in to head up the volunteer coordination was very beneficial this year. I'd like to see every sub-committee effort have at least one back-up to help with the effort and be able to pick up the job, if need be.
- Rules: We should stress participation rules more, but otherwise I think we're pretty much on track.

Website:

- We may have too much info on the website, and I need to focus on that when developing next year's presence.

Publicity/Media:

- I think we were surprisingly successful in our efforts this year, but I'll be doing more evaluation of those efforts in the weeks and months to come.

Parade Marshals:

- Sorry, but beyond the grand marshal, I'm confused what you might mean here.

Grand Marshal:

- It appears Mayor Parker is always eager to fill that role but do feel we should continue to attempt finding someone who's directly linked with whomever we're honoring.

TCVC After 2024 Parade Feed Back

Line Up: Appears to have worked quite well and I defer to Bill for any recommendations. With the construction under the bridge completed, we shouldn't have any horse challenges next year.

Staging Area: I think it's an ideal location, but I have concern we may be running out of space for all those who want to participate.

Volunteers: Hats off to Tom for his excellent efforts coordinating the volunteer effort. This year's resulting smooth parade flow was a direct result of volunteer and ham radio coordination.

Parade: Overall, I think it went very well. I'd like to see it moving back down Main Street in hopes of generating more spectators.

Opening Ceremony: Seemed to go very well, except for the Jr. ROTC Color Guard. Having it run a little short is certainly better than running over and delaying the parade start.

Suggestions: Review the feedback you receive and continue to fine-tune the effort without going too far into the weeds and becoming overly bureaucratic... After all, we're still herding cats!

We should stress participation rules more, but otherwise I think we're pretty much on track.

Website: We may have too much info on the website, and I need to focus on that when developing next year's presence.

Publicity/Media: I think we were surprisingly successful in our efforts this year, but I'll be doing more evaluation of those efforts in the weeks and months to come.

Parade Marshals: Sorry, but beyond the grand marshal, I'm confused what you might mean here.

TCVC After 2024 Parade Feed Back

Grand Marshal: It appears Mayor Parker is always eager to fill that role but do feel we should continue to attempt finding someone who's directly linked with whomever we're honoring.

Line Up: Appears to have worked quite well and I defer to Bill for any recommendations. With the construction under the bridge completed, we shouldn't have any horse challenges next year.

Staging Area: I think it's an ideal location, but I have concern we may be running out of space for all those who want to participate.

Volunteers: Hats off to Tom for his excellent efforts coordinating the volunteer effort. This year's resulting smooth parade flow was a direct result of volunteer and ham radio coordination.

Parade: Overall, I think it went very well. I'd like to see it moving back down Main Street in hopes of generating more spectators.

Opening Ceremony: Seemed to go very well, except for the Jr. ROTC Color Guard. Having it run a little short is certainly better than running over and delaying the parade start.

Suggestions: Review the feedback you receive and continue to fine-tune the effort without going too far into the weeds and becoming overly bureaucratic... After all, we're still herding cats!